DIXON AUTO MAN SWINDLED WHEN HE LOANED CASH

"Watch Salesman" Disposed of One Timepiece Here.

The police learned yesterday that one of Dixon's automobile dealers was the victim of a money raising scheme Monday evening about six o'clock, the perpetrator of the act, being the same individual who so generously offered imitation gold watches to garage men and oil station attendants from DeKaub to Dixon. Three were picked here for "easy money" but only one responded.

Walking into a garage, the artist smiled and cheerfully addressed the proprietor, who was somewhat taken by surprise by his familiarity. "Why, don't you know me?" queried the slicker.

"Can't say that I do," was the reply.

"Well I was in here a couple of weeks ago with a friend of mine and had some work done on my car. Surely you haven't forgotten me by this time," was the response.

He appeared to break the veil and after shaking hands, the stranger proceeded to extract the car key. Telling a story of having a large consignment of cigars in the express office, which had been closed, and being without funds, he presented a hexagonal shaped gold watch and pointed to leave a ring with a large red set, security for the loan of $15. Coupled to this, he promised to present the garage man with a box of the cigars in the morning when he brought back the money as a mark of appreciation for the loan. Crisp bills were peeled off a fair sized roll and the smiling stranger departed never to return again.

Tried Other Places

At an accessory store, the stranger gave the same program and promised to purchase two new tires the following morning when a friend of his would arrive with his car. This also persuaded the proprietor to part with $15 in which to pay the express on a consignment of high grade cigars, but at the last moment he reconsidered the matter and left the money in the cash register.

Chief Van Bibber was notified yesterday that the stranger dropped one of the watches in the oil station at Rochelle Monday evening, while in the act of removing $38 from the safe, and in his hurried exit failed to pick it up.

MUST FIGHT LIGHT WINE AND BEER TO FINISH—MISS HOOD

W. C. T. U. Leader Tells Freeport Convention of Situation.

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 24—Light wines and beer must be fought to a finish, Miss Helen L. Hood, president of the Illinois Women's Christian Temperance Union, declared in an address prepared for delivery at the opening session of the annual state convention of the organization here today.

"Under cover of these lighter beverages, rum and gin would return and the saloon would soon be re-established," she said.

Miss Hood declared that "prohibition is a success" but that "there are those in this country who would nullify the effectiveness of the Volstead act by bringing about the licensing of traffic in so called harmless wines and beer of small alcoholic content."

Blames Officials

"Officers are in sympathy with the cause of prohibition have been largely responsible for violation of the dry law," said Miss Hood.

Chicago, because it has a mayor who wanted a clean house, has swept out the bootleggers and has even gone into homes striking at that great cause of corruption, home brew."

Miss Hood indicated that the Illinois W. C. T. U. will do an extensive work in 1924 and 1925 for organization, membership campaign, law enforcement and preparation for the primaries and election of 1924.

"Along these lines," she said, "the W. C. T. U. shall carry on an educational propaganda in every one of the 400 unions of the state."

"Our organization will stand for prohibition and the enforcement of the Volstead act. We will work for the strictest enforcement of our federal law."

CORONER ORDERS SHERIFF OUT OF DISPUTED OFFICE

Latest Steps in Legal Battle Over Room in Court House.

Coroner Samuel J. Whetstone of Steward last evening exercised his legal power over the sheriff of Lee county, when, armed with a writ of restitution issued out of the circuit court, ordered Sheriff Elliott C. Risley to vacate the room in the south east corner on the second floor of the court house, seized and held by him as an office.

In connection with the order to vacate the room, which he is said to have taken by forcible entry and detainer process, the sheriff is also ordered in the writ to pay costs in the sum of $41.60 and added to this the costs incurred by the coroner in the serving of the papers.

The action is the result of the opinion handed down by the appellate court about two weeks ago, in which it upheld the opinion as given by Judge Franklin J. Stranksy during the summer, in which he held that the sheriff exceeded his authority in evicting the county judge and seizing that room to be used for himself.

RHINELAND STATE WOULD MEAN THAT FRANCE RULES ALL

NEA Staff Writer Says Rhine and Republic Aim of France.

Bob Dorman recently returned from the territory which is now the new Rhineland Republic. He was there as correspondent and observer for the NEA. He has been bed with officers and enlisted men of both the French and German armies. He fraternized with laborers. He sat in with political and business leaders. In short he obtained a full picture of the attitude, hopes and aspirations of all who are now directly influenced by the founding of a new political state. Probably no writer in America is better qualified to tell what it all means.

BY BOB DORMAN, NEA Service Staff Writer.

With the establishment of the Rhineland Republic an accomplished fact, the primary aim of the French occupation of the Ruhr is attained.

Though Premier Poincare of France officially denies such aim, such was the prevailing idea, I found, among the officers of the army of occupation when I was with them recently.

Their views of a successful accomplishment of such a coup d'etat are of interest in the light of what has followed.

First—The establishment of a Rhineland Republic establishes a buffer state between France and a revenge-seeking Germany.

Second—Payment of reparations becomes a vicarious dream, with the richest part of the German Reich separated from Germany.

A Rhineland Republic will always lean toward the French rather than toward the Reich, because of fear of reconquest by the German government.

Third—With domination of the Rhineland, French industrial domination of continental Europe becomes complete. The coal of the Ruhr added to the rich ore beds of Lorraine places her on an equal footing with her rival, England.

France can dominate Europe equally in a military sense. Her industrial supremacy, added to her agricultural resources, will make her position well nigh impregnable.

Fourth—The successful separation of the Rhineland, will stimulate like action on the part of other states, none too closely bound to each other. A complete destruction of the Reich would remove for many years, and perhaps forever, a war of revenge.

Though France officially denies any part in the Separatist movement, the fact that she has announced her troops will maintain order is sufficient indication of her attitude. How can Germany regain her authority in the revolting provinces without disorder?

PARK BOARD ORDER STARTS ARGUMENT IN CITY COUNCIL

Object to Moving Building Off City Property—Question Power.

The extent of the powers of the park board was questioned by members of the city council last evening and following a lengthy discussion, Commissioner Charles E. Miller requested that City Attorney E. E. Wingert investigate under what section of the park act the board is organized and report back at the next meeting of the council on Tuesday evening of next week.

The park board came into prominence when Frank Sproul, who last Saturday was served with notice to vacate certain city property on East Way, claimed that he owned the property and that he had been occupying it for some time. The board had no notice had been served on him. It appeared during the discussion that the park board had failed, in one instance to prevent construction of a porch which extended several feet beyond the city property on the street in question.

Sproul To Make Complaint

Mr. Sproul questioned the council for its legal right in serving notice on him and not on the other owner, and in response to question from Mayor Palmer he stated that he personally would enter the same complaint in the second case. He was told that complaint had been made to the council by the park board concerning his occupancy of the city property and because of this the notice was served on him to vacate.

Will Improve Property

Mr. Sproul explained that he planned within a few years to build a modern brick structure to replace his present location, and expected to front the building on East Water street. With this plan in view he suggested a term lease, which he offered, until such a time as the street question is permanently improved when he was willing to vacate.

Commissioner Stothower was in favor of the term lease action to Mr. Sproul, and others whose property might be questioned, stating that he did not favor giving away the city property, but that he saw no harm in allowing it to be used as is necessary until such a time as it is necessary to vacate because of the permanent improvement. He added the title of the property should remain with the city and that at the present time, the property was not obstructing the street in question.

Mayor Palmer favored the suggestion of the commissioner with but one exception, that being that instead of a term lease, an agreement be entered into. It was at this point that the controversy that Commissioner Miller sought to ascertain the legal powers of the park board and made the request that the city attorney investigate the matter and report back at the next meeting of the council.

Vale Asks Funds

Commissioner Joe E. Vale of the department of streets, exploded an other bomb which caused no small amount of comment in the council for some minutes. A bill from Highways Commission James Penny in the sum of $2,141.97 for work done on the streets of the city was presented. The commissioner of streets asked that the bill be met from the contingent fund and this brought an immediate response from Commissioner Stothower of the department of public accounts. He explained to Commissioner Vale that he had no appropriation remaining, a sum of $1,200 with which to run his department until next April and added that the only manner in which the bill could be paid was to draw on next year's appropriation.

Streets Require More Money

The commissioner of streets maintained that he was entitled to more money with which to operate his department, adding that $6,000 was not a sufficient sum with which to conduct his department for the period of one year. The road and city in many instances were in a "poor condition," the commissioner said, "and when I came into office the Chicago road, the Rock Island road, Second and Seventh streets were particularly bad and immediate repair was necessary. I had no idea at the outset when I ordered these improvements made, that the bill would be as large as it is."

After discussing the matter to some length, the council agreed that the bill was excessive and asked that the highway commission review the statement to see if some estimate had not been made in the amount charged the city.

A bill amounting to $1,039.97 in favor of Dixon township for road construction work in Oakwood cemetery early today, were reported covered under a mantle of snow which was said not only to have broken weather records but to have been the largest occurring this early in the season for more than a decade.

OLD BATTLERS ON REPUBLICAN SIDE OF CONGRESS GONE

New Generals Needed to Direct Party Fights in Washington.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Oct. 24—Besides the difficulties which it will encounter with the militant progressives within its party ranks the regular republican organization in the house of representatives will find itself somewhat handicapped at the coming session by reason of the inability to maintain a personnel in floor combat and the more intimate details of parliamentary procedure.

Deaths and voluntary or enforced retirements have removed from the majority side of the house almost the entire group of men who in recent sessions have stood as the bulwark against the onslaughts of the minority. As a result whoever succeeds to the floor leadership vacated by Frank A. Mondell of Wyoming, will find himself in the position of having to meet almost single handedly the construction of a porch which extended several feet beyond the city property on the street in question.

Old Batlers Gone

Supporting the majority leader will be no Mann to unravel parliamentary snarls, no Towner to expound learnedly on the rules, no Wainwright ready with musty precedents against this proposal or that. Neither will there be a Stafford eagerly watchful of every move "across the aisle" nor a Campbell to boldly cross swords with the opposition.

Generals Strong

There will be a different situation on the democratic side, everyone of the old group of the leaders will be back and they will be augmented by Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee, who has returned to the house from Tennessee. There will also be the floor leader, Oldfield, of Arkansas, whip-Garner, of Texas, who is at his best in a rough and tumble debate; Crisp of Georgia who is recognized as one of the ablest parliamentarians in the house; and several recent years' figures of South Carolina, James H. Duff of Tennessee and the ever-alert Blanton of Texas.

In the senate there will be what is regarded generally as a fairly equal division of experienced leadership. The probability will be that in his place as majority leader with Kansas as his assistant. They will be supported by Watson of Indiana, Smoot of Utah; Wadsworth of New York; Sterling of South Dakota; and others who will succeed to the party leadership in the event of the retirement of McCumber of North Dakota, New of Indiana and Kellogg of Minnesota.

Robinson of Arkansas will be the minority leader and will have about him such experienced assistants as Underwood of Alabama; Stanley of Kentucky; Walsh of Mass.; and Harlow of Missouri, and others whom will replace in the leadership of the Hatcher of Nebraska and Pomeroy of Ohio who failed of re-election.

GOVERNOR WALTON OUT—PLANS FIGHT IN STATE COURTS

Report Governor Plans to Go Before Appeal Court.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 24—(By The Associated Press)—The bitter fight precipitated since the convening of the special session of the Oklahoma legislature today, when Representative J. W. Callahan, democrat, Latimer County, introduced a resolution providing for an investigation to determine whether the expenses of house members when they attempted to convene September 26 and were dispersed by military authorities on or after from Governor Walton, Callahan is a Walton supporter.

The resolution was adopted after an acrimonious debate and was referred to a committee investigating conduct of house members during the session.

The resolution sought especially an inquiry to determine whether the Ku Klux Klan or certain "interests" in Tulsa had contributed funds for the armed forces of Governor Walton.

Representative J. B. Phillips, democrat, of Cleveland county, assailed Callahan for his reflection on the house members who sought to answer the call for the session that was blocked by the Governor. He demanded an immediate investigation of the latter's solon's charge and declared that if it is proved untrue he would move for the suspension of Callahan.

Callahan rejoined that he had the proof and dared the house let him produce his testimony.

While the house fight was in progress both Governor Walton and Lieutenant Governor Trapp, arrived at their offices and were officially served with the senate resolution adopted at a late session of the legislature, temporarily and naming the latter acting governor during the impeachment trial of Governor Walton.

Lieutenant Governor Trapp declared that he would not resign his office from George Short, state attorney general, as to the legality of the senate resolution designating him acting governor during the trial of the chief executive. He declared he would be guided by the attorney general's finding and that if he is informed he is the legally empowered acting governor he will perform the nominal routine duties of the chief executive.

D. H. S. Hopes for Victory in Next Sterling Contest

The Dixon high school football team has started practicing again for the big game of the season with the Sterling eleven on Thanksgiving day afternoon at Brown's Field. Coach Bowers is putting his men through some new tactics on plays and shifts which they will use in the final game of the season, which it is hoped will provide better interference for the back field men.

Most all of the members of the team were out for practice Monday evening, some running, others doing drills and some from Saturday's battle at Sterling. Lahey will probably be seen in a new position at the next game. In practice he is making a wonderful showing at full back and he will doubtless be called back from the line to hold down that position for the remainder of the season. Coss is the likely candidate for his position at end.

Coach Bowers is giving his second string of men a good workout this week for a game to be played at Amboy. Amboy was seen in action here the first of the season and was defeated but hope to turn the tables on their own ground Saturday, when they will oppose the second string players.

SIZE UP DAMAGE OF STORM ALONG VIRGINIA COAST

Shipping Paralyzed During Violent Gale, Now Easing Up.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 24—With a stiff breeze sweeping from the west across the sandy soil of Cape Henry into Hampton Roads, shipping interests as well as the municipalities of New Port News, Old Point Comfort, Newport and others, were taking stock of damage done by the storm which swept this section all of yesterday and which reached its crisis during the night.

The storm during which the wind was reported to have reached a velocity of 55 miles an hour, paralyzed shipping activities. Even war vessels members of the naval scouting fleet at sea practiced on the southern drill grounds in Chesapeake Bay sought cover from its fury, anchoring in Lynnhaven Bay and Hampton Roads.

The winter quarter lights were reported adrift from its moorings as was her sister ship at Cape Charles. The latter reached port late yesterday under her own steam and is now laid up for repairs. The winter quarter ship was believed to have been able to get back to her position. She did not ask for help.

Twice during yesterday during high tides the lower sections of the city were inundated. Telephone and other electric wires suffered heavy damages, it was reported.

The storm abated about 8 o'clock last night.

SUB FIDE NEWS FOR HAY FEVER VICTIMS AT SURGEON'S MEET

Relief and Cure Promised in New Methods Being Considered.

Chicago, Oct. 24—A million Americans who wheeze and sneeze with asthma and hay fever, are promised relief and cure in a new method of treatment being considered at the convention of the American College of Surgeons.

Asthma and hay fever are due to food infection. Flowers, grass, grain pollen, horse, dog and cat fur, tobacco smoke, face powder and eggs have been the common exciting agents.

The protein treatment merely raises the tolerance of the patient to these substances," Dr. D. W. Myers, Ann Arbor, Mich., said. "It taught the patient to become accustomed to the cause that did not remove it."

"Asthma and hay fever are more preventable than typhoid or diphtheria," Dr. H. M. Goddard, Philadelphia, said.

The surgeons forecast there will be less sneezing before the pollen-bearing winds, less avoidance of eggs at the breakfast table. Patients who have not stroked a dog or a cat for years, may in future surround themselves with household pets if the new method and its promises hold good.

In addition to the clinical demonstrations at the Chicago hospitals which feature today's program of the convention, phases of hemorrhage will be discussed at the general session.

A. E. Webb-Johnson, C. B. E., D. S. O., F. R. C. S., London is the principal speaker on the program with the subject "Surgical Knives."

Rehabilitation surgery is the subject to be taken up by Dr. F. H. Albee, of New York.

BOLD ROBBERY IN BUREAU COUNTY; GUARD ALL ROADS

Two Youthful Gunmen Get $2,000 in Raid This Morning.

Two youthful bandits walked into the First State bank of Ohio, 22 miles south of Dixon this morning, held up three employees of the institution and three customers whom they commanded to lay face downward on the floor, rifled the cash and cash drawer, secured about $2,000 in currency and then walked out and sped away from the village in a Jewett coupe.

The robbery was perpetrated this morning about 10:45, the two men working with dispatch and overlooking a large sum of money in their haste. V. R. Pomeroy, cashier, A. C. Ruff, assistant cashier, C. J. Kramer, bookkeeper, were all taken into the bank and three patrons, Henry Jackson, Nick Johnson and Charles Anderson were transacting business in the institution when the car was driven up in front and stopped.

The two bold bandits stepped out and walked into the bank, where they pulled revolvers, one an automatic, and ordered all six men to face down on the floor. All obeyed at the first command and without standing guard, the two men walked to the vault, where they hurriedly gathered together currency, emptied the cash drawer of its contents, then walked out without the exchange of a single word.

Started Toward Dixon

They climbed into the car, started the machine and sped out of town, taking the patrolled road north toward Dixon. As soon as the men left the bank, employees hurried to telephones and turned in a general alarm. In five minutes after the daring robbery, Sheriff E. C. Risley was notified and organized a party of deputies, armed with borrowed rifles and started toward the town of Dixon in an effort to head off the bandits' car. Chief Van Bibber was also notified upon receipt of the word at the sheriff's office and placed a guard at the roads leading into Dixon from the Dixon Roads.

Sheriff Harry Mills, at Princeton, telephoned all police and sheriffs in this section of the state to place a guard on all roads, with a view of capturing the pair, who are believed to be amateurs at their work. A posse was also being organized at Ohio, leaving that place in high power, cars to give chase.

Today's Market Report

Wheat Strong for Time on Market; Corn Unsettled

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Increased buying on the part of commission houses gave an upward tendency to the wheat market today during early dealings. Besides offerings were light except on bulks in price. The opening which varied from unchanged to 1/4c higher, Dec. 1.05 1/2 to 1.06 1/2, and May 1.10 1/2, was followed by a moderate advance and then somewhat of a reaction.

Subsequently the market was well sustained. Gospel was current that several large grain traders would go to Washington to confer with government officials about the best methods of helping farmers get higher prices. The close was unsettled, 1/2 to 1/4c net higher, Dec. 1.06 1/2 to 1.07 1/2, and May 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 1/2.

Final wheat continued to make the corn market easy. After opening unchanged to 1/4c up, Dec. 73 1/2 to 74 1/2, prices showed slight weakness. Later, in sympathy with wheat the market rallied but again sagged at the last. The close was unsettled at same as yesterday's finish to 1/4c lower, Dec. 73 1/2 to 74 1/2, and May 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 1/2.

Provisions were upheld by firmness of hogs.

HOSPICE OF ST. BERNARD BUILT 1000 YEARS AGO

Famous Old Convent in Switzerland Has Historic Interest.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—The Hospice of St. Bernard celebrated its thousandth anniversary a few weeks ago on the assumption that the earliest date, 923, ascribed to its foundation by Bernard de Menthon is the correct one.

The famous convent and the pass in which it is situated are the subjects of the following bulletin from the National Geographic Society:

"The Pass of the Great St. Bernard across the Alps, what the world now Switzerland and Italy, is the highest point in Europe that is inhabited the year round. It is a bleak, cheerless region of gray rocks in summer and a dazzlingly white desert of snow in winter.

"In this spot only 3500 feet above the sea and so close to sunny Italy, the handful of devoted monks who maintain the hospice live in a climate like that of ice-bound Spitzbergen. The mean annual temperature is 39 degrees Fahrenheit. The mercury does not rise above 45 degrees in summer, and in winter it sometimes falls as low as 40 degrees below zero. The little lake beside which the convent buildings rise frequently remains frozen all summer long.

"The pass was one of the earliest known routes across the Alps and remained one of the most important until recently when a railroad, following a near-by route and taking an unfair advantage by utilizing such modern devices as tunnels, left it more or less off the beaten path. Home used the pass for centuries in flinging its power north of the Alps and in maintaining its rule over its Gallic and Teutonic provinces. The first highway was said to have been constructed through the pass by the Romans in 47 A. D. In the middle ages Charles the Great, Frederick the Barbarian and numerous other rulers and noted generals led their forces through. In later times the pass played a part of major strategic value when Napoleon led an army over it in 1800 to the field of Marengo.

"Pilgrim Route in Middle Ages

"After the middle ages the decline and her rise to spiritual importance with the spread of Christianity, the pass became frequented by pilgrims passing from northern and central Europe and even England to the shrines and pilgrimage places of Italy. Bandits infested the pass and the neighborhood and the pilgrims were in constant danger of being killed or robbed. Hundreds of pilgrims, too, caught in storms died from exposure. Bernard de Menton, a monk then living in Aosta, Italy, near the southern end of the pass, was stirred by the plight of the pilgrims and founded the hospice at the crest of the pass to provide shelter and protection. This was in 923, according to some writers, and in the following century according to others. Another version of the story says that a hospice was established on the same spot in 859 but was destroyed, and some centuries later was re-established by Bernard de Menton.

"The buildings of the hospice make no pretensions architecturally. They are great barn-like structures, but in their bleak surroundings they are hailed by weary travelers as oases of beauty. Inside they are comfortable, and they have been the means of saving many lives.

"Its Life-Saving Dogs

"One gift of the Hospice of St. Bernard to the world which may be lost sight of beside the greater gift of brotherly helpfulness in its breed of great shaggy dogs that deserve to be ranked the Abou Ben Adhem of dogdom. The splendid creatures attached to the hospice patrol the neighboring sections of the pass after winter storms, carrying with them bread in containers round their necks. They have rescued many men perishing. The most famous of all, 'Barry,' saved 40 persons but was shot by the 41st who thought he was being attacked. The breed is supposed to have originated from the crossing of the Pyrenean sheep dog with another strain.

"Monks and dogs alike give their lives to their work of rescue. In the rigorous climate of their bleak hospice even those who escape avalanches and storms have their lives shortened. Only young monks are found at the hospice, usually in ill health, to live their remaining years in the lowland.

Minnesota Ready for Badger Game

Minneapolis, Oct. 24.—Finishing touches for the University of Minnesota's football team for the conference tilt with Wisconsin Saturday, will be given the Gophers today and tomorrow by Coach Bill Spaulding.

Serimmage today and light drill tomorrow will conclude the training here, as the football squad departs tomorrow night for Madison.

A large number of rooters and the University band, 100 strong, will accompany the gridiron warriors to the Wisconsin capital. Voluntary contributions made by the fans at the last two football games at home has made it possible to send the large school musical group.

Having shown in three games to date that they have a good variety of line plunges, which have accounted for huge yardage gains, the Gophers have been devoting much of their recent practice time to the aerial passing game. To date this branch of the system has suffered a setback due to the injuries to the passing hand of captain Earl Martineau, stellar half-back and adept at shooting passes, and the ineffectual play of Herb Swanbeck, quarterback, whose bruised ankle forced him from the lineup.

Reports that the Badger football line is not showing to the best advantage and that they have not perfected a favorable defense for the forward pass have been discounted by Coach Spaulding, who in printing his glad tidings for a stiff encounter. Special attention is being paid to the tackling by the Gopher linemen who have been advised of Wisconsin's speedy running attack.

There will be no admission charge to any of the athletic events, except to the Stadium game, of course.

A TALK WITH A DIXON MAN

George L. Richardson, retired Farmer of 402 Lincoln Ave. Tells of His Experience

There is nothing like a talk with one of our own citizens for giving hope and encouragement to the anxious sufferer from the dread kidney disease. We therefore give here an interview with a Dixon man.

"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for some years off and on as a tonic for my kidneys and they have kept them active and healthy," says Mr. Richardson. "I had signs of kidney disorder such as a heavy full feeling across my back just over my kidneys, especially when I have taken cold. The kidney secretions were somewhat retarded at times. Doan's Kidney Pills have always proved a valuable remedy in curing these attacks. They keep me in good health for a man of my age."

HILL LOVERS
They who love hills and valleys in the sun,
And robins on a lawn and swaying trees,
They who love mountains when a day is done,
Are always, always moved by such things.

Always they hear a hill in the night,
And a sound of sighing branches in a glen,
Never a bird goes winging in moonlight,
But they are eager for the trail again.

What they know of water or the sea,
Or salty islands in a glistening bay,
They have not watched tall vessels from a tree,
Or stood on islands watching spume and spray.

Only a hill can move them after all,
Or plum trees blossoming beside a wall.
—Harold Vnal in Christian Science Monitor.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS
Pie Crust—Flaky pie crust, which is the way all pie crust should be, is easily obtained if you add a spoonful of vinegar to the cold water when mixing it.

Oatmeal in Dough—When you use oatmeal in dough as for coddies or muffins, grind it before you measure it.

Discolored Vases—Glass vases that have been discolored by flowers can be restored by dropping in a few tea leaves soaked in vinegar.

The Sanitary Way—Always wipe off the mouth of the milk bottle carefully before you pour out the milk. This is the place where dust and impurities are most apt to gather.

Perforated Spoon—In your kitchen supplies you should number a large perforated spoon for creaming butter and sugar for pastry. It is much more convenient than a regular spoon, a fork.

For Comfort's Sake—It is a simple matter to raise the working surface of a table, stove or washbub by placing blocks under them. Every housekeeper should adjust these to life height that is most convenient to her peculiar needs.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

WHAT TO SERVE AT TEA TIME
Perhaps you are to "have" the sewing club next week some afternoon. Of course your first thought is "What shall I serve?"

These recipes may be a bit different or else so old they seem new to you. Just because a dish is old is no reason to condemn it.

If you would drink cocoa in place of tea try dropping a marshmallow cut in halves in each cup. You'll like it and it saves fussing with whipped cream at the last minute.

Maraschino cherries are quite as good in hot tea as a lemonade. How would you like a frozen salad, sandwiches, salted nuts, tea and bonbons instead of ice cream and cake?

Or these little marmalade rolls, tea or cocoa, baked ice cream and salted nuts may appeal to you.

Frozen Salad
One pint canned tomatoes, 1 cup water, 1 cup Roquefort cheese, 2 cups whipping cream, 1 small onion, 2 stalks celery, 4 tablespoons tomato catsup, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper.

Put tomatoes, onion, celery and water in a smooth sauce pan. Stew 20 minutes. Rub through a fine sieve. Add catsup, sugar, salt, pepper and soda. Soften gelatin in four tablespoons cold water. Dissolve in boiling tomato puree. Let stand until gelatin begins to set. Mash cheese and work in enough cream to make smooth. Whip remaining cream and combine with cheese. Fold into tomato mixture. Pour into a mold and freeze in four parts ice to one part salad for two or three hours. Serve on crisp leaves of head lettuce with or without French dressing.

The merit of this salad is that it's ready to serve without any mixing when wanted.

Brown bread sandwiches, toasted or plain, are delicious with this salad.

Marmalade Rolls
Three cups flour, 3 tablespoons butter, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, water, orange or grapefruit marmalade, 1/2 cup chopped English walnuts.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Work in butter with tips of fingers. Cut in water with a knife, using enough water to make as soft a dough as can be handled. Roll on a well floured board. Make the sheet oblong as to shape, and not more than one-half inch thick. Spread with marmalade, roll up like a jelly roll and cut in inch slices. Bake 15 minutes in a hot oven.

These can be made and cut, placed in the pans and kept in a rather cool place until ready to bake and serve. They should be served warm and fresh from the oven.

Baker's Cream
Make a rich pie crust and bake in small deep individual pans. Prick the dough many times on the bottom and around the flange to prevent bulging while baking. Chill the shells thoroughly after baking. Fill shell three-quarters full of firmly frozen ice cream. Cover with meringue. The meringue must completely cover the cream. It should be about one-fourth inch thick and fit closely along the pie crust. Put under the flame in a gas stove to brown or in a very hot oven. Serve at once.

To make the meringue allow two tablespoons of sugar to each egg white. Beat white until stiff and dry on a platter with a wire whisk. Beat in sugar. Three egg whites should be enough for 16 tiny "pies".

The ice cream is also baked in one large deep pie shell and cut like ordinary pie.

Pie Crust
Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 cup lard, cold water.

Wash butter in cold water to remove salt and buttermilk and to make it easy to handle. Mix and sift salt and flour. Work in lard with tips of fingers. Add very cold or ice water to make a stiff dough. Put on a floured molding board and roll into an oblong sheet about one-quarter inch thick. Put the butter which has been made into a flat oblong pat in the center of the lower half of the pastry. Fold upper half over butter. Fold lower half over enclosed butter and upper half under. Pat and roll out to one-fourth inch thickness.

Fold in thirds and roll out again. Keep lifting and dredging board with flour to prevent sticking. Fold in thirds and roll out the second time. Use as desired.

Grace Evangelical Church Revival is Reporting Progress

Have you heard the Aeolian Quartette? If not you are missing something.

The interest in the meeting reached its height last night when the Evangelist was greeted by a full house. There was a deep spiritual feeling throughout the service and many hearts were touched.

"A Rose in a Devil's Garden" was the subject upon which Rev. Favro based his discourse. Mrs. Whittmore, a great slum worker, started into the slums one day with a beautiful rosebud to find the girl with the most sin scarred face. She found her in a drunken stupor and when given the rose she placed it in an empty beer bottle on the mantle. The next morning she noticed that the rose was in full bloom and the petals were falling. The thought came to her, "How like my life is this rose." Her life was gradually wasting away. She went to Mrs. Whittmore's office and found that the slum worker really loved her and wanted her to be saved. She was away a redeemed woman and became an angel of mercy, a human rose growing in the devil's garden.

This story bears a striking resemblance to that of Rahab, the wicked harlot of Jericho who sheltered the spies sent by Joshua. You remember how she believed that God would fulfill His promise to the Israelites and give them the city. As they were leaving she begged as a reward that she might be saved when the city was destroyed. She was told to assemble her relatives in her home and place a scarlet thread in a window. So by the scarlet thread Rahab and all her household were saved while the rest of the city was destroyed. Some of these days He is coming with His army and when that day comes, will He be able to see the scarlet thread (the precious blood of Christ) in your hearts? The persons who have been washed in the blood of Christ are the only ones who will be saved, there is no other way. Rev. Favro said: "If you have not experienced conversion and have not testified to it, if you have not been born again, my Bible says you are not saved."

Some say: "Oh yes, we believe all this but there is plenty of time" Matt. 24:44 says: "Therefore be ye also ready for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh." Again some moral people say: "I'm just as good as church members." Isa. 53:6 tells us that "All we like sheep have gone astray."

The word all includes everyone. Many people are playing with their most precious possession, which is their soul and should be careful lest they lose it. If you do not let Jesus save you before you die, some day He will say to you: "I tried to save you but you wouldn't let me."

Life is a school, a place to prepare and when school is over we are going home.

There is only one way to Heaven and that is the blood sprinkled way of the cross.

If you will claim God's promises you can make good in your Christian life.

If we yield to temptation it is because we do not try to find a way of escape.

If you are saved He must do it His way, not your way.

Young people's meeting as usual tonight. Great enthusiasm is being shown in our contest. Wayne Hartman's side being in the lead.

Prayer meeting at the church at 7, preaching at 7:30 on: "How to spell Hell with five letters." If you want to hear something that you don't know, don't fail to hear this.

Cottage prayer meeting tomorrow at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Benj. Gaggster, 204 Lincoln Way.

Christian Revival Continued with Unabated Interest

The strong interest in the Peters-Seniff Christian revival continued last night, as was shown by the filled church and the number of strangers and visitors from a distance. Over ninety boys and girls attended Mr. Seniff's meeting of the "Do Right Chorus" in the afternoon. They will meet again Thursday afternoon.

"The Rainbow of Promise," as discussed by Dr. Peters, proved an unusually interesting topic. The text, as could be supposed, was the words of the Lord to Noah, after the Flood: "I have set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth." First, the darkness of the cloud of sin that depresses and discourages mankind was depicted. Then, over against this, was pictured the varicolored ribbon of God's infinite mercies, as revealed and assured in the gospel. The certainty of these promises of the Heavenly Father was dwelt upon, and the necessity and importance of their proclamation. God is able and is willing, man, too, is capable of receiving and enjoying. But all promises are conditional, and man must meet the conditions. Jesus said, "If I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself," but he did not say, "I will drag men." Man's free moral agency is both his glory and his peril; he must exercise it aright if he would possess the rich blessings of God.

Nine were baptized by the pastor at the beginning of the meeting. At the close two more joined during the invitation.

This evening Dr. Peters' topic will be: "Hidden Among the Trees."

FORD AND PROHIBITION.

Warren G. Hinshaw, chairman of the national committee of the prohibition party, says that Henry Ford can have that party's nomination for the presidency next year if he wants it. He probably would have taken that nomination in 1920, Mr. Hinshaw intimates, had not friends of Woodrow Wilson dissuaded him.

The prohibition party, it should be remembered, is not a union of the people favoring the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement. It is the party, it is true, which originally favored a dry nation, but first of all it is the party which divided the republican party, which contained, and which contains today, the great majority of the dries of the country, and which by this division held back for many years the actual passage of a prohibition law.

The effect of the nomination of Ford by this party would in all probability be a repetition of past history. It would attract a sufficient number of dry republican votes to throw the election to the democratic candidate, whoever he might be. And what the democratic party would do to the eighteenth amendment in four years can be easily imagined.

CUT AND DRIED.

We're well on our way to a civilization of canned food, canned music, canned drama and canned thought. This idea is set forward by Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the Russian writer.

Well, yes. We buy food canned in a tin, music canned in the phonograph and radio, and drama canned in movie form so half a dozen shows can be carried around in a suitcase full of film reels.

The idea, that our thoughts also are reaching us in canned form, is true though few of us ever sized it up that way. Propagandists, of course, are the chief cannery. One consolation is that a variety of cans of thought are handed to us, and we can take our pick.

Is it a good thing that our thoughts are reaching us in canned form? Why not? It's merely a process of delegating our thinking to an endless procession of experts.

The man who thinks entirely for himself is a mental Jack-of-all-trades-and-master-of-none. Each question that comes up, he concentrates on as if it were the most important thing in the universe. Waste of time.

Say there's going to be an eclipse of the sun. Do you waste time trying to figure out why? Certainly, not. You want an astronomer to do this bit of thinking for you. He does. Newspaper is your agent or medium of exchange.

When the astronomer's auto breaks down, he turns it over to a garage mechanic instead of trying to figure it out himself.

Billions of different things to think about in our world. Tendency is for each person to single out the line of thinking that interests him most—and concentrate on it, become an expert for others.

Printing press causes thoughts for future, fast as discovered.

WHAT YOU LIKE.

A New York clerk is sent to the penitentiary for the fourth time and for the same old offense—stealing dictionaries. His fourth attempt to increase his vocabulary took place in a department store where he saw the king-pin of dictionaries—$13.50, which, being a clerk of modest means he couldn't afford.

You will read a good many days before you find anything stranger than this in the news. Three times he had stolen dictionaries and gone to prison for it. You'd think he had learned his lesson. Not so. Back he came a fourth time.

Here you see the workings of a curious brain kink or abnormality that is also characteristic of the chronic criminal. What most of them need is expert medical attention by brain specialists.

Off to prison the fourth time, the old man (he's 75, with white hair) who can't resist dictionaries, boasts that his vocabulary now includes 100,000 words. The reporter describes him as having a "scholarly brow."

Too bad some rich man didn't catch him early in the game and "cure" him by giving him all new dictionaries as fast as they came from the presses.

Difficult to understand him and his peculiar craving? Well, after all, isn't it just as sane as some of the cravings the rest of us have? We know many a man who is "crazier" about golf, salted peanuts or a collection of canceled stamps than this pitiful old character braving jail in his quest for knowledge.

Perhaps the rush of immigrants to America could be checked somewhat if we would send over to Europe a lot of our radicals, who are telling us what a horrible country this is. But we'd have to pay the radical agitators a good round salary to get them to leave good old U. S. A. for even one season.

Germans apparently believe in the freedom of the press—to print money.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

GOODBY TO SQUEALY-MOO LAND

"Another adventure!" cried Nick.

"Well," said Farmer Brown one day as he walked through the cornfield. "It's getting pretty late in the fall and I think the corn is dry enough for husking. Tomorrow I'll hitch Charlie and Bob to the big wagon and we'll take down the cornshocks and haul the corn in. Then I'll invite all my neighbors over and we'll have a husking-bee and my wife will have cider and doughnuts for them."

Farmer Brown was talking to himself, but three pairs of sharp little ears heard every word he said.

Nancy looked sad. "If Farmer Brown takes away all the cornshocks, he'll take your house, too," she said. "And where will you live this winter, Mister Dodger?"

"Why, I'll go and rest for a spell," answered the little fairy fellow cheerily. "I'll go back to the Fairies' Hotel in Fairyland where most of the fairies when they aren't working. I haven't seen my friends for a long time and it'll do me good to have a good visit with Mister Tatters and Mister Sky-Bow and Mister Tinseling and Mister Scribble Scratch and all the others I haven't seen for so long."

"But what will the Squealy-Moo people do without you?" asked Nick. "Will they be safe?"

"Sure!" answered the little fairy-man, stuffing his old corn cob pipe in to his pocket. "It's only when they are out of doors they need to be looked after so much. When they are indoors, as they will have to be mostly from now on, they are safe. Crazy Calf can't eat poison weeds, and Frisky Cow can't squeeze through the orchard fence and make himself sick on sweet apples. And Mister Hawk has gone south for the winter, I guess, for I haven't seen him lately; so the chickens and ducks won't be in danger, either."

"Well, if you go, we'll go, too," declared Nancy. "I mean we can't stay in Squealy-Moo Land by ourselves."

"I was just coming to that," nodded Mister Dodger with a mysterious smile. "Useful people are never out of a job, my dears."

He reached into his pocket and pulled out a letter. "I found this on the table when I came in today," he said. "Silver Wing, the Fairy Queen's messenger, must have brought it while we were out."

It was addressed to the Twins, and read:

"Dear Twins:

"Please come to my palace as soon as you get this. I want you to go south to Dixie Land."

Lovingly yours,

"The Fairy Queen."

"Another adventure!" cried Nick. "I told you so," said Mister Dodger. "Come. We'll say goodbye to our friends here and be going."

AS THE TRAVELER SEES IT

BY BERTON BRALEY

I'm used to spending eight bucks a day.

For a little room with a shower bath.

Three boxes for breakfast I often pay.

Without exhibiting rabid wrath.

But I dissolve in a fiery vapor

When soaked three cents for a two-cent paper!

The holder grafts of a large hotel.

I know them all and I bear them meekly.

It's very seldom I groan or yell.

And if I do, I'm a holler weakly;

But like an Indian brave I caper

When charged three cents for a two-cent paper.

By big hotels I am often gaffed.

I'm used to it and I don't complain.

But the guy who started that newsstand graft

Some day I'll murder, and when he's slain

I'll pay three cents for a funeral paper!

Which I shall make of a two-cent paper!

FARMERS DEMAND PROTECTION FROM WATERWAY FLOOD

Endorse Waterway Project But Ask Provision Against Flood.

While endorsing Federal legislation which would provide for a deep waterway from Chicago to New Orleans, the Illinois Agricultural Association will demand that the bill carry adequate provision for protection against increased flow of water during the flood season, according to President Sam H. Thompson, who is quoted in information received by the Lee County Farm Bureau.

"Members of the Illinois Agricultural Association own approximately 3,000,000 acres of land along the Illinois river affected by the McCormick bill," states Mr. Thompson, "and they must be protected during the flood season."

A special committee of United States Senators has recently visited Illinois to investigate proposed courses which this waterway would take from Chicago to the Mississippi river.

If the waterway will be passed, proponents claim that it will afford cheaper transportation by water to both New Orleans and Chicago for agricultural products and other commodities in the districts tributary to the course.

Start in Junking Aurora Car Line

DeKalb Chronicle—According to reports from Attorney John Newhall, Aurora, late this afternoon the Chicago, Aurora & DeKalb electric line will soon be a thing of history. Work of junking the line was resumed today, at Maple Park, the trolley wire being the first to be removed. It was reported the trolley would be taken down from Maple Park to Aurora and then the owner, Israel Joseph, would order the rails removed. At any rate, it means the end of a once busy inter-urban line that operated successfully between Aurora and DeKalb.

The report received today was that no offer had been made whereby the road could be operated between Kaneville and Aurora and as the time limit was up, there was nothing further to do, but order junking of the line.

The last legal obstacle to the junking process was removed when the time limit set by Attorney General Brundage expired. This order came through the commission and held up work until such time deemed probable when there was a possibility of Kaneville men and outside interests would take hold of the line.

There was also pending an appeal to the appellate court, in which it was sought to make the injunction permanent, but official sources state that this matter was dismissed on agreement with the attorney general.

Kaneville people, especially the business men, are now shut out from the world as far as transportation is concerned. There is no possibility of shipping cattle or grain products out of town and it is isolated.

Several propositions were offered by outside interests after the Aurora junkman had purchased the line for $50,000. The offers were to be considered if the necessary financial guarantee was placed, but it was not.

Gas from Auto is Fatal to Woman

Chicago, Oct. 23—Deadly carbon monoxide gas, filling a garage in the rear of her home at 513 Wellington street, is believed to have lain in the new garage for two and a half hours, while members of the family in the home a few yards away, were unaware of the tragedy.

The garage had recently been equipped with a patented ventilator, designed to eliminate the danger of the gases, generated by keeping the motor running in a confined area.

Ventilator Fails to Work

It failed to work. The gases, similar to "black damp" in mines, are fatal in a few minutes.

Carbon monoxide gas is formed of a combination of gases containing carbon, carbonic gas, dioxide, hydrogen and other elements coming in contact with oxygen.

It poisons body cells by working on red pigments of the blood, but where there is plenty of oxygen it dilutes the gases as well as rejuvenating and restoring the attacked cells and pigments.

Carbon monoxide is present in lighted gas and sewer gas, and is some times generated by stoves.

BELDING, FAMOUS STAR, IN LEGION GAME ON SUNDAY

Clinton Will Appear Here with Strong, Heavy Team.

Belding, famous all-american football star, will appear in Dixon Sunday against the Legion team in the contest between the Legion teams of this city and Clinton, Iowa. Aside from his reputation as a football player, Belding has assisted in increasing the strength of the Clinton squad over last year and they take pride in the fact that they have not lost a game this season.

The Light Rock Island Navajo club, which appeared here early in the season, was downed 19 to 0 by Clinton. The strong Dubuque team held the Legion to a scoreless game. The Davenport to a scoreless game. The Rockford Gophers went down in defeat by a score of 14 to 3, Belding carrying the passes over the line for touchdowns. Manager Burlingame of the Clinton Legion squad boasts of the strongest team since their organization about three years ago. His line will average about 200 pounds the man and the back field about 170, which is the heaviest aggregation that has appeared on the local field this season.

Belding, the strong man of the team, last Sunday played at end, quarter or half, wherever his strength was most needed, and was a whirlwind throughout the afternoon. He was a candidate for the all-American team two years ago when playing with Iowa because of his ability to fill in at almost any position.

Clinton promises to bring a big delegation of fans to Dixon Sunday for the first game and the local Legion will play a return engagement at Clinton on Thanksgiving day.

WASHINGTON

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON—Worse things might have happened to Germany than the disappearing value of her money, in the opinion of Senator Edwin F. Ladd of North Dakota, just back from Europe. In fact, Ladd is about of the opinion that, fundamentally, the shrinkage of the mark has done more to get Germany's feet set on the straight and narrow economic path than anything could have happened to her.

"Of course, the cheap mark has worked a hardship on capitalists, bankers and many others," Ladd explained. "But the flood of marks has enabled the German farmer to pay off his debts and redeem his land and has put the prime resources of the country back into the hands of the German people instead of land barons and bankers."

President Coolidge is rearranging his schedule of values. Formerly, he was rated as his most precious gift. But ten weeks in the White House has showed him that in the job of president, time is even more precious.

How to get exercise necessary for his physical needs with the least expenditure in hours and minutes has become a real puzzle.

Advocates of golf have been met by the answer that enough golf to give one an appetite takes from three to four hours.

Horseback riding has been side-tracked because the time necessary to change into riding togs and back, plus the period necessary for a canter through Rock Creek or Potomac parks, almost equals that for golf.

Direct action exercise, the president finds, gives the best workout in the shortest space of time. As a result, he is depending more and more on his early morning, before-breakfast walk to keep him toned up physically.

And it saves him two hours for work.

Few flat dwellers have a more hectic time with landladies and moving days than does Myron T. Herrick, our ambassador to France.

For the third time since he returned to Paris in 1912 Myron has had to pack up and move. And, as all transient residents know, moving isn't all there is to it. Finding some place to move to is a big part of the problem.

When he leased the residence from which he has just moved Herrick was told it was the expectation of the Prince de Broglie, the owner, to find a permanent winter home in Algiers. Herrick wanted the place, for the rent of which he had to spend about four-fifths of his salary, and promised to vacate on demand in case the prince should tire of travel and return to France.

Well, the prince came back and Myron had to vacate in the morning. This time the embassy is parked temporarily, in the property of the Princess de la Tour d'Auvergne where the tapestries are said to be the finest outside the former royal palaces.

STATE HEALTH MAN SAYS THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN "STARVE"

Malnutrition, Caused By Unbalanced Diet, Injures Many.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—Thousands of children in Illinois are literally starving according to Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state director of public health, who declares that an ample quantity of food is not sufficient to insure vigorous, positive health, especially during childhood. "The most conservative estimates of careful and scientific investigators report that at least 10 per cent of school children in this country are today suffering from malnutrition in a degree severe enough to call for active treatment," said the director, "and figured upon this basis upwards of 100,000 children in Illinois are now undernourished to a rather serious extent."

Need Balanced Diet

"Malnutrition results from a lack of sufficient food of the right kind," Dr. Rawlings stated, "or, stated differently, the absence of a balanced diet. And a lack of a balanced diet on tables in Illinois results not so much from poverty, although this is an important factor in some instances, as from a bad choice of food stuffs, commonly known as bad diet habits."

Manifestations of malnutrition include underweight, anemia, chronic fatigue, faulty skeletal development, bad teeth, bad posture and nervousness. Surveys have disclosed the astonishing fact that practically 90 per cent of school children have from one to a dozen cavities in their teeth. Since many of these children have enjoyed every advantage that regular cleaning and dentistry can give for preserving the teeth, the cause must be placed elsewhere and so it is that scientific authorities point to diet, especially of prospective mothers and infancy and early childhood as the underlying cause of bad teeth in a great multitude of cases.

"Appetite and instinct are completely trustworthy in the choice of a balanced diet. Even so lowly an animal as the mouse will get into extreme nutrition difficulties when its appetite is permitted to come the sole judge of his diet. The common observation of fat people is a perpetual evidence that appetite alone leads astray in matters of diet because it is a well known medical fact that overweight is deleterious to health and that too much eating results in too much fat."

Times Have Changed

"To the standpoint betterment in the theory that what was good enough for our ancestors is good enough for us, it is pointed out that the diet of the American people today is radically different from what it was 100 years ago. Sugar consumption has jumped from 11 to 90 pounds per capita per year. While bread consumption has increased at about the same rate while at the same time the modern manufacture of flour eliminates the wheat kernel and the bran, two important food constituents. Other changes are equally noticeable, caused principally by the development of transportation. "To prevent malnutrition in a practical way the daily diet needs merely to be so planned as to increase the per capita consumption of dairy products, leafy vegetables and fruits with a corresponding decrease in such things as white bread, meat, potatoes, butter, peas, etc."

"Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, a nationally known authority on nutrition says: "The faulty skeletal development and the bad teeth of America today I believe to be essentially the result of poor nourishment during the developmental period. There is but one effective remedy—that is a dietary reform."

Coal Wholesalers Deny Price Gouging

Washington, Oct. 22.—Charges of the United States coal commission that wholesalers have extracted a profit as high as 200 per cent from the public during the period 1913-1922 were denounced as "ridiculous and untrue" by the American Wholesale Coal Association here today.

The commission's report made specific reference to the wholesale association which it charged had advocated an "unfair profit standard."

"The commission's profit statement is a deliberate attempt to create the impression throughout the country that the wholesalers make exorbitant profit on the capital invested and devoted to the business, whereas the profit, so-called, is not a profit at all, but a just compensation for services rendered to the public and the mine owners," Ira Cochran, commissioner of the association, said.

Cochran said that profits are restricted to compensation received from the service charge not exceeding 8 per cent, which wholesalers are permitted to charge for handling coal direct from the mines to the retailers and the public.

Were it not for the wholesalers, Cochran charged, many small mines would be forced out of business and the public would be "left at the mercy of the large and powerful companies, who would then be in a position to exact their own prices."

Lowden Offered Ambassadorship to Great Britain

Hon. Frank O. Lowden of Ogle county, former governor of Illinois has declined the offer of ambassador to England, tendered to him recently by President Coolidge.

The position to represent the United States at the coronation of King George VI. and it is understood that Mr. Lowden was the first choice of the President, as Mr. Harvey's successor. Ex-Governor Lowden was a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1920, and he may be one of Mr. Coolidge's rivals for the nomination at the Republican national convention in 1924. This was well known to the President, but nevertheless he did not hesitate to make a formal tender of the offer as envoy to Mr. Lowden, even though he had been advised that in all probability it would be declined.

SPOTLIGHT NOW CENTERING ON HILL'S CELLAR

Congressman Will Test Alleged Discrimination.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—Congressman John Philip Hill of Baltimore, whose cellar has been temporarily padlocked by the U. S. Government because he allowed grape juice to ferment and become wine, believes that he will soon have the Volstead Act in a terrible snarl.

When the case against Hill is argued at Baltimore at the end of this month, Hill says he plans to confront prohibition enforcement officials with their own supposedly conflicting regulations in order to make them either revise their present law or dry up the United States entirely.

Hill cleared up all confusion regarding his purpose in making wine in his cellar today when he declared that he intended to force a final ruling on whether it is legal or illegal for householders to make cider and fruit juices on their premises.

"The present interpretation of the Volstead Act permits the worst sort of class discrimination," he said. "The farmer, under Section 22 of the National Prohibition Act is now permitted to make cider and non-intoxicating fruit juices. He certainly cannot prevent the processes of nature which cause these beverages to ferment and both Federal Prohibition Commissioner Hayes and Andrew Volstead, former father of Prohibition, have said that this fermentation is not illegal. They have also stated that the Prohibition law was not intended to apply to fermented fruit juices. So the farmers can evidently make hard cider and grape wine and both of these are intoxicating."

"But the Prohibition Act makes it illegal for the city man to make home brew or home-made wine and it has been rigidly enforced in practically every city in the United States. I call that class legislation in favor of the farmer, and it is about time we had a show down on the whole proposition."

Congressman Hill claims that since he left fruit juices in his cellar to ferment the federal prohibition office at Washington has changed its ruling, declaring that all beverages containing more than half of one per cent of alcohol are illegal. It was under this new interpretation, he says, that District Attorney A. W. W. Woodcock, of Baltimore, brought injunction proceedings against him and restrained him from entering his own cellar.

"As long as the farmer could make his own hard cider and wine with assurance that prohibition agents would not interfere, the Volstead Act was not in his life," Hill declared today. "The ruling in my case should determine whether or not this is to continue, for it will be handed down in a federal court. If fermentation is illegal, the country goes bone dry. If it is held to be legal, the Volstead Act will look like a sieve."

Even before the injunction "padlocking" his cellar had been obtained, Hill had sealed the door in red, white and blue wax, and placed an impress of the head of Abraham Lincoln thereon. The seal will remain, he says, until the case is decided one way or another.

Hill is a lawyer and ardent "wet" before deciding what action to take in answer to the temporary in-

IF YOU HAVE A PAIN IN THE BACK, BEWARE THE AD OF THE QUACK!

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson
Thousands of persons are afflicted from time to time, and many others almost constantly, by what is commonly known as backache. It is a favorite of the patent medicine "bark-ers." You are almost convinced by their literature in spite of your own good common sense, that something is surely the matter with you.

There are times when certain wasting diseases severe attacks of colds or downright weariness of body cause pain in some degree or other, in your back. Careless, indifferent, slouching posture will often cause back-muscles to weaken and ache to such an extent that some mechanical support is necessary.

But don't get scared or imagine every time you get a "twick" in your back or the nerves, muscles and ligaments seem to be so tired you can hardly stand, that something is surely wrong. It is usually the strain of the hip bone and sacrum (the points of the spine) that causes a large number of backaches, and not rheumatism.

It is no wonder, such a person wearing such a shoe, exclaims on reaching home, "I am ready to drop, my back is killing me."

He will probably answer it shortly, but wants to do it in such a way that he will be free to introduce evidence he claims to have collected over a two-year period, including letters from both Commissioner Roy A. Hayes and Andrew Volstead, former congressman, granting alleged immunity to farmers in their manufacture of both cider and fruit juices.

Stengel Praises Ruth as Batter

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aurora, Ill., Oct. 23.—Charles "Casey" Stengel, the Giant outfielder who won two games in the world series, figuratively doffed his hat to Ruth at a banquet given here last night for Stengel by admiring friends.

"Ruth is the greatest hitter of all time," Stengel said. "He can hit any kind of a ball and hit it farther than any man who ever swung a bat. He can also miss any kind of a ball if you get him aggravated. That is the only system to use against him, aggravate him with bad balls. He will swing at some of them. If he swings at enough of them you will be saved. You never can be sure, however, that he won't reach one of the bad ones solidly. The second home run he got in the big series he made reaching with one hand."

Stengel said that the Yankees were a wonderful ball club. "Cannonballers," he called them.

AMERICANS WILL SEARCH REMOTEST CHINESE REGIONS

Seek Trace of Human Life Earlier Than the Chinese.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—The National Geographic Society, announces the sending of an expedition into remotest China to search for human traces of east Asia's history before the Chinese came, to hunt for specimens of a monkey believed to be the largest nonanthropoid species in the world, and to collect botanical specimens in a spacious region virgin to scientific study.

Kweichow, where the mysterious non-Chinese tribes of China dwell, is the objective of the expedition. This province, about the size of Missouri, with a population estimated at 8,000,000 is an inaccessible as Tibet. It is the least fertile, least visited, and most backward portion of China.

An "Ethnic Circus Troupe" Yet the strange tribes which suggest that some ethnic circus troupe was stranded there hitherto unrecorded human history. One of the few visitors among these tribes, who makes no claim to being a student of anthropology, said he saw types resembling the Gurkha, the South Sea Islander, the American Indian, the East Indian, and the Negro.

It may develop that some or all of these strange tribes constitute the American Indians of China. Another writer says that the process of Chinese acculturation has been going on among them since 2355 B. C.

Shut Off from News of World Between two and three million of the non-Chinese population survive in the mountains of China. Many of their strongholds never have been visited by white men; whole tribes did not know the World War was in progress. While China was stirred by the Shantung problem because the Chinese feared encroachments in the province of Confucius' tomb, these tribes were oblivious of any "Shantung problem," though they may retain the vestiges of a culture spread over the whole of southern China in the days when Confucius taught.

Occasional travelers who have penetrated villages of some of these tribes tell how one of them threshes grain on the roof tops as in the Holy Land; how others have great "prayer flags" flying on fortified castles; and how quarrels are settled on horseback with blunderbusses, broadswords, and bags of stones as the weapons in these curious jousts.

Kweichow has escaped zoological collectors, although it holds hope of many animal prizes. It lies on the watershed between the Yangtze and the West River. Its northern mountains are a continuation of the Tibetan system. Therefore the faunas of Indo-China, of the mountains, and of the Yangtze valley should meet within its borders.

May Be Animal Famous in Literature The monkey the expedition particularly hopes to find is the Rhinopithecus Brelichi, of which the only evidence now available is the skin of a female which shows a head and body measurement of 29 inches and a tail measurement of 39 inches. There has been speculation regarding the possibility of this species being an animal described in a famous passage of Chinese literature as follows:

"Its nose is turned upward, and the tail very long and forked at the end; whenever it rains, the animal thrusts the forks into its nose. It goes in herds and lives in friendship; when one dies the rest accompany it to burial. Its activity is so great that it runs its head against the trees; its fur is soft and gray and the face black."

Going directly to Peking, Frederick R. Wulsten, leader of the National Geographic Society expedition, will first take with him into Kweichow a Chinese botanist and a staff of Chinese assistants for a reconnaissance. Later, he will be accompanied by a party comprising botanists, zoologists, and anthropologists. The last named will study the origin, physique, habits, language, and rich mythology of the non-Chinese tribes which vary, in all these respects, from their Chinese neighbors.

Sterling Speaks Well of Dixon H. S. Football Men

Commenting upon the clean sportsmanship spirit displayed at Saturday's game between the Sterling and Dixon high schools, the Daily Gazette of that city says:

The Sterling township high school football team triumphed over the Dixon high school Saturday afternoon at Community park, 33 to 13. In one of the hardest fought and cleanest contests ever played between these two schools. The members of both teams and the fans of both cities showed the finest sportsmanlike conduct ever shown between these two "friendly enemies."

There was not a thing to mar the game. And while Sterling won by a comfortable margin, it can be said of the visitors that they fought hard all day and never gave up hope. Sterling outplayed the visitors in all departments of the game except the air route and in this Jones showed up well for the visitors and made a number of good passes for long gains. Pitney was the outstanding star of the locals' offensive, being a consistent ground gainer. The Sterling line was a stone wall on the defense and broke up the Dixon plays time and again. On the offense they made holes in the Dixon line and made it possible for the local backfield to go through for gains. Davis at quarter had the visitors guessing most of the time and outguessed Dixon time after time.

The locals presented a varied attack which appeared to baffle the visitors. Dixon is not discouraged and are going to work hard to defeat Sterling when the two teams meet at Dixon on Thanksgiving day.

BIG TEN TEAMS IN STRENUOUS DRILL WORK THIS WEEK

Strive to Avoid Elimination from Pennant Winning Saturday.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Big Ten football teams today were in the middle of the most strenuous week of drill since the opening of the conference season, with a certainty that one, and possibly more teams will be eliminated from the championship consideration as a result of Saturday's games. Part of the teams are devoting nearly the entire week to straight football and a strengthening of their line for defensive purposes, while others are developing an aerial attack that they hope to use where crashing the line of their opponents proves hopeless.

In the clash apparently relying on the aerial route to victory are Northwestern and Ohio. The Purple eleven is working overtime on its passing tactics, and apparently hopes to use this form of play against Illinois, one of the most dangerous teams in the conference. A special defense is also being perfected against Grange, the Indian sophomore who has made most of the Illinois points to date. Much of the practice sessions are devoted to blocking Grange plays used in the earlier Illinois games. Ohio, apparently convinced that it cannot penetrate the Iowa line on Saturday, is further developing its aerial attack which was used against Michigan.

Wisconsin and Minnesota, whose game at Madison before a home coming crowd will eliminate one or the other of these unbeaten eleven from championship consideration, have retired behind locked gates to put on the finishing touches. Oliver Aas, last year's Gopher captain, was reported as about ready to join his team again. There is much speculation about his plan of play as the team thus far has exhibited nothing in public but straight football.

Chicago, anxious to keep its record clean, is pounding its freshmen eleven unmercifully in preparation for the game with Purdue. Coach Stagg dedicated he will probably shift his line considerably when he tried out several second string men on the regular team. Michigan's regulars are going through a stiff practice in preparation for the Michigan Aggies although the Wolverines expect little trouble in this game.

Aside from the conference events, one of the biggest inter-sectional contests of the mid-west will be one of the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech contest. Notre Dame, conqueror of two of the fastest teams in the east, will be greatly handicapped through the loss of Elmer Layden, whose long punts, accurate passes and ground gaining ability helped the team in the Army and Princeton games. Walsh whose work at center, also attracted attention in the Army game, will be out of the Notre Dame lineup.

Veterinary Surgeon in Rock Falls Takes Own Life with Gun

Dependency over ill health is believed to have been responsible for Dr. C. C. Fleck, veterinary surgeon, Rock Falls, taking his own life by shooting himself in the head with a 22 target rifle on Saturday night. The rash act was committed in his room over the Riverside restaurant in Rock Falls. His lifeless body was found by Mrs. Gus Douglas, wife of the proprietor of the restaurant, about ten o'clock Sunday morning when she passed through his room. She notified her husband, who in turn called Dr. C. M. Frye, coroner.

An investigation of the body indicated that Fleck had been dead for ten or twelve hours. He went to his room early Saturday evening and it is believed that he shot himself between ten o'clock and midnight. When found the rifle was tightly clenched in his right hand and his finger rested on the trigger. Among his personal effects was $16 all the money he possessed. Dr. Fleck had been a resident of Rock Falls for the past fourteen years and formerly lived in Tampico. He was about 63 years old and has no surviving relatives.

An inquest was held at one o'clock Monday afternoon.

Tells of Problems of Country Editor

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 24.—Problems of the country newspaper editor, as detailed for journalism students of the University of Illinois by B. B. Bates, publisher of the Farmer City Journal are seven: getting the news, holding subscribers, what to print and what not to print, getting to press on time, writing editorials, the editor's rearing, and making the business pay.

"Personal contact combined with keen observation, an inborn or cultivated aptitude for sifting out items, and the cultivation of contributors will get the bulk of the local news," he told the young scribes. "Correspondents may be relied upon for neighborhood notes."

"A newsworthy paper first, solitators next and in extreme cases a premium will secure readers and the merits of the paper will hold them."

according to the speaker, "but contests are not advised. "News which, though legitimate, will embarrass the subject could best be displaced by the stinging apt. or, if printed given the most charitable wording."

Making press on time rests largely through the speaker, on keeping up with copy and mechanical work day by day and educating advertisers and contributors to turn in copy early.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hope Ranger is held prisoner in a sanitarium owned by a group of criminals. She makes her escape with another prisoner, Dr. Kelsey. The two escape from the hospital in the superintendent's car.

The car is wrecked and Hope is recaptured, but Kelsey escapes and joins the highwaymen. He is in an attempt to rescue Hope before the kidnappers have time to kill her. Alderman Higgins calls Dr. Kelsey, superintendent, that the girl must be killed.

Nurse Kelsey, in love with Dr. Kelsey, kills him in a jealous rage. Hope is taken in a car by Higgins. His intention being to have her killed. To his consternation Higgins finds his car in charge of Charlie and Kelsey.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

THE struggling procession of Main Street, which is the Merriam Road, was almost ended; that white ribbon car, madam and crystal-bell, with one village shirred on to another as it follows the windings of the South Shore, was about to fray into the asphalt threads of the city.

Charlie's mercurial spirit was overcast with misgiving, shadowed by the perturbing claims of his responsibility.

"Jamaica!" He pointed to a hill-side ahead, with scattered lights over it, as he turned back to Hope and Kelsey. "I'm going to stop here and telephone. And you'd better get William the Silent there, and sit on him, while I'm about it. We don't want to attract such attention as he'd love to create, if he had half a chance."

Choosing an inconspicuous place to stop beyond the Peace Monument, Charlie drew up to the curb and hurried into a drug store. After an interval, he reappeared, much of his customary jaunty restored.

"You can draw your own conclusions, when I tell you I was exchanging a few remarks with a lawyer whose name begins with H."

Charlie was back in his seat again by this time. "We've got to be on our way now."

But when he attempted to drive on, the starter wouldn't work. For several minutes he fussed with it, following various suggestions from Kelsey and Hope; but it was plainly out of order, and he was anxious to avoid further delay.

Muttering anathemas on the balky device, Charlie clambered down again, and went to the front of the car to crank up.

His experience at cranking had been hitherto confined to fluffers. He did not reckon on the superior horse-power of the limousine. On the second revolution the engine backfired, hurling him into the middle of the street.

He picked himself out of the mud. All his debonair complacency had vanished. He stood beside the running board, his face twisted with pain, gingerly holding his right arm.

Unnoticed by either of the men, Hope had slipped past them and run to the front of the car. She grasped the crank which had proved so vicious to Charlie, and with a deft turn or two had caught the spark.

"I'll drive the rest of the way to town," she said. "We'll get along perfectly."

With the car once more in motion, and the difficulty apparently smoothed away, Charlie began to talk of his own accord.

"You see, Bill," kindly, "if you're counting on any one having listened on my talk to Higby, you're going to be fooled."

Their prisoner roused up at this, and bent forward. "How's that?"

"Why, Higby of course wanted to know just where I was, and how long before I'd arrive, and how I was coming, and all that. So just to be

"Last year pigs of an intermediate type not only made the most rapid and economical gains, but also dressed the best carcasses," he said. "This year, these types are feeding well but leaped at Higgins, and lifting him, thrust two or three square bits of pasteboard through the front window.

Shuffling them rapidly, Charlie sang out in triumph.

"I've got it! Keep on moving, Sister."

He held it out to show the signature of the Police Commissioner, as an angry traffic cop came bellowing toward them; and as if by magic, the way opened.

"And now for home!" breathed Hope.

"Not this way out!" Charlie waved imperatively to the left on Fourth Street. "Don't think that Bill's Sunday School class will lay down as easy as that. I'll bet that the telephone wires are buzzing right now to the uptown bunch. There'll be a gang at either end of the block where your father lives, waiting for us. I'm going to take you to some people I know on the West Side until I'm sure of a clear track."

So, under his direction, Hope drove the apartment on Central Park West, which housed the Greenbergs.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenberg, the Princess and Miss McCarthy, the ladies in gay evening wraps, were disappearing through the doors, while Mr. Leffler was holding a light to the figure of Mr. Dave Greenberg, who was just about to drive the family car to the garage.

"Greenberg! Wait!" Charlie halted; and jumping from the limousine as Hope drew up, rushed toward the two men.

"Listen fast, boys," he said. "We've got Hope Ranger here, and want your bus to get her home. Greenberg, you drive us. There's a crowd of gunmen after us. Leffler, are you game to scout our car four or five blocks away, anywhere, and leave it?"

For the rest of his life Charlie retained an inordinate respect for those two young men. They took the situation standing. No running around in circles of excitement. No fool questions. They had been in the war, and understood the value of quick thinking and immediate action in a surprise attack.

They spoke in one joyous breath, and with brevity.

"Sure," said Mr. Leffler.

"Get in," said Mr. Greenberg.

Hope who was close behind Charlie sprang into the Greenberg car; and Charlie and Kelsey, aided by Mr. Leffler, dragged out Higgins, a dead weight on their hands, and hustled him in after her. Kelsey followed, and Charlie scrambled up beside the driver.

Higgins stretched out his hand and claved at Charlie's arm.

"A hundred and fifty thousand a piece, if you let me go."

"Why, Bill," Charlie spoke in pained surprise, "you're a piker after all. Our price is just double whatever you've got."

Greenberg swung into Fifth Avenue, and Charlie drew his first long breath since they had started. Also, for the first time in his adventurous career, he felt a warm, emotional regard for the police.

They were sprinkled up and down the thoroughfare, guarding it for several blocks from the Ranger home.

The long strain was over for all of them. Kelsey, sitting beside Hope, felt a vast relief and at the same time an infinite sadness.

The curtain was falling, and his heart ached. She was safe among those who loved her, a great relief slipping into another world than his. He was an unknown, poor young man.

Already the car was drawing toward the sidewalk.

"I want to say goodbye before you reach home," his voice was shaky.

She loved him; so immediately she divined his trouble.

"George!" She looked at him with a quainly mischievous smile. "I didn't know you were shy. Are you afraid of my father and mother?"

It hurt, that light tone. "The adventure's over," he said, stoically calm. "I couldn't take advantage of your youth."

Her lips brushed his cheek.

"Your adventure is just beginning," she murmured. "A beautiful one this time."

Ford for President Clubs to Organize New Political Party

Detroit, Oct. 23—(By The Associated Press)—A call for a national organization conference of all Ford for President clubs to be held in Dearborn, home of Henry Ford, December 12, 13 and 14 was decided upon at a meeting of several local Ford clubs held here last night.

Formation of a new national political party with Henry Ford as its standard bearer is the object of the promoters. The conference, according to leaders of the movement, probably will name a date and place for holding a nomination convention next spring.

The conference call will go out within a few days, it was stated by William Kronberg, secretary of the Dearborn Ford for President club.

"It was decided upon," he said, "only after insistent demand from Ford clubs throughout the country."

The Dearborn club, he said, had been inactive for some time owing to its inability to obtain from Henry Ford any statement as to whether or not he would accept nomination by a Ford party the clubs might organize.

"We virtually were forced into action," Mr. Kronberg said, "many of the clubs in other states threatening to proceed with a convention call if we did not do so."

Mr. Kronberg estimated the number of Ford clubs now in existence at between 300 and 400, and added that he was advising the organization conference would attract at least 3,000 delegates and visitors. Sessions of the organization conference, he said, would be held in the auditorium at Dearborn, home of Henry Ford.

Last night's meeting, at which about a score of delegates were present, was presided over by Judge Edward Jeffries of the recorder's court.

"Eden," in the original Hebrew, means "delight."

JUDGMENT AGAINST E. R. Urbana, Ill., Oct. 23—Judgment for $7,831.63 was taken by the Fowler State Bank at Rantoul, against the Kankakee & Urbana Traction Company in Circuit Court here late yesterday during a special session of the court. The sum represented money advanced to the company by the bank.

of Detroit. Among those present besides Judge Jeffries and Mr. Kronberg, were Clyde Ford, a cousin of the Detroit manufacturer; Rev. William Davis, president of the Dearborn Ford club and Henry Radduck, treasurer of Dearborn township.

Accompanying the formal call for the organization conference probably will be a copy of a proclamation signed by those attending last night's meeting.

"Five years ago," says the proclamation, "the nation's patriots were called to arms to save democracy to the world. The time has arrived for another call to the patriots of the country to save democracy to the United States."

The leadership of both the republican and democratic parties," it adds, "has become the special servant of what is commonly understood in this country as 'the interests' and under one or both of these parties changes its leadership and attitude toward the people there is little hope of obtaining any economic relief from our present intolerable conditions."

Lauding Henry Ford, the proclamation declares "No man since the days of Jefferson and Lincoln has come so near the ideal of what a president ought to be."

A resolution inviting the cooperation of the National Grange, the Farm Bureau, the American Federation of Labor, the Farmer Labor Party and kindred organizations was adopted by the delegates, following introduction of the proclamation which was drafted by Judge Jeffries.

FARM BUREAU FIGHT PITTSBURGH PLUS CUTS HIGHWAY COST

Save $80,000 Lbs. Steel for Concrete Roads This Year.

The campaign against "Pittsburgh Plus" waged by middle western states has already had the effect of lowering the price of steel to a considerable extent, according to President S. H. Thompson of the Illinois Agricultural Association, who represented Illinois farmers at a meeting of "The Associated States Opposing Pittsburgh Plus" in Chicago.

It was brought out at this meeting, states information received by the Daily News, that Illinois has benefited to the extent of approximately $80,000 from the reduction of steel freight charges for 1,000 miles of hard road building this year. There are 16 1/2 tons of steel on the average to a mile of hard road and the reduction in steel price is nearly 33 per cent, which is credited to the fight on "Pittsburgh Plus."

"Pittsburgh Plus" is the practice of charging for freight on steel from Pittsburgh to the point of consumption, regardless of whether produced in Pittsburgh, Gary, Ind., or anywhere else. It is estimated to have cost Illinois farmers over $2,000,000 per year in the past, as farmers are among the heaviest users of steel products.

to abolish the unjust charge and more will be invited to join. They have hired expert economic authorities who will appear in testimony against "Pittsburgh Plus" on Dec. 10, before the Federal Trade commission in a strong effort to have it abolished.

HEALTHGRAMS

It is estimated that over 100,000 children in Illinois are suffering from malnutrition. A lack of sufficient milk, fruit and vegetables is the chief cause of this situation according to public health authorities.

Curiously enough poor people forego health in search of wealth while wealthy people hasten to spend their treasures in search of health. Happy is the man who has the good sense to recognize that the primary source of human wealth is in reality health.

Druggists report a thriving business in the sale of cathartics. Objects for which these drugs are bought can almost always be more pleasantly and profitably obtained by adding more leafy vegetables, fruits and bread to the diet according to medical authorities.

Cost and taste usually determine what and how much we eat. That fact, says the state department of public health, explains the mystery of many ills.

Bootleg liquor caused five deaths in Pana recently according to newspaper reports. The men who drank the deadly poison knew better than to indulge their appetites while the vendors of the stuff have been arrested on the charge of manslaughter. Since Oct. 1 an estimated average of 10 in Illinois from diphtheria, a positively preventable disease. This mortality is looked upon merely with a solemn silence.

Tuberculosis caused 5596 deaths in Illinois last year. Out of this number 2220 fatalities occurred in the city of 6355 deaths were charged against tuberculosis in the state and since that time the population has increased nearly two million.

Sugar consumption in America has increased from an average of 11 to 99 pounds annually per capita during the last 100 years according to official statistics. Health authorities suggest that this fact may have an important bearing upon the bad teeth that pester the present generation, pointing out that sugar may have replaced calcium producing diet.

Babies have colds chiefly because other members of their families have them first says Doctors Winholt and Jordan of the University of Chicago. These two physicians made careful investigations of 1,000 infant cases, 500 of whom had colds and 500 who did not, and concluded that in most cases the colds had been contracted from others.

Kankakee county and city have established a new nursing service. The county board supervisors, the city school board and the county tuberculosis association each support a nurse, giving a total of three for the county as a whole.

As between the movie and the infant welfare station the baby has no choice but if he did have there is little doubt as to where he would be found. Movies are all right, says the state department of public health, but as a leading place for babies they make good incubators for communicable diseases.

Nutrition experts declare that the diet of expectant mothers have a more fundamental influence over the health of babies than any attention or lack of it that comes subsequent to birth. The state department of public health urges prospective mothers to eat well balanced diet, and emphasizes particularly the value of dairy products, leafy vegetables and fresh fruits.

Charge of Forgery in King Will Case Declared Unfounded

Chicago, Oct. 23.—When the written opinion of the Supreme Court of Illinois was examined it appeared that the report that the now famous second King will had been held a forgery was wholly erroneous and unfounded.

On the contrary, the Supreme Court, recognizing the validity of the will and its due execution, held that Mrs. King was barred by her delay in presenting the will for probate in due time and that her sister was likewise barred by Mrs. King's lack of diligence.

The court, in its opinion, says in substance that it must be assumed that Mrs. King, for reasons of her own, elected to take under her settlement with the residuary legatee the opinion, "the evidence on behalf of 1915 will, because, to wit, from of plaintiff in error shows without contradiction that Maude King was present when the will of 1915 the so-called second King will and the one in dispute in the case conveying approximately $3,000,000 was executed; that she had this will in her possession two or three days before the death of King."

No Formal Forgery Charge

The court also calls attention to the fact that while a large amount of evidence was introduced to endeavor to prove the will a forgery, yet no formal charge of forgery has ever been made.

The opinion further finds that the thousands of pages of testimony presented by the Northern Trust Company on the issue of forgery had no place in the case and that both the probate judge and the circuit judge were wrong in permitting it to go in.

In other words, the Supreme Court substantially holds that were it not for Mrs. King's delay the so-called second King will should have been admitted to probate as the last will of James C. King.

Attorney Gives Views

When interviewed, Roy D. Keehn, attorney for Mrs. Melvin said on behalf of himself and those associated with him in the case:

"The opinion of the Supreme Court brushes aside all of the hullabaloo and bunk that was raised in this case about Gaston Means and alleged forgery.

"The judgment is based entirely on the question of whether Mrs. King was guilty of delay in not presenting the will in due time.

"On his point, the court has decided against us. While we cannot agree with the court at the present moment, at least the law is now settled and we must be content. There is no alternative."

KEPT HIS WORD

LONDON.—It took eight policemen to carry him to the station, testimony revealed. And the reveller in the dock at Willemsen court didn't deny it. "You know, your honor," he pleaded, "the last time I would come back again."

LARGE AND SMALL FANS

In contrast with the large feather fans that have been so decorative with the plaid type of evening gown, are small ones of lace or spangles, mounted on delicate sticks of carved ivory.

The oceans contain enough salt to form a block measuring 4,800,000 cubic miles.

DRAWING LESSONS

The fond mother approached the teacher anxiously.

"Oh, Professor, don't you think my dear little Randolph will ever learn to draw?"

"No, madam—that is, unless you harness him to a truck," calmly replied the professor.—From Everybody's Magazine for November.
